132	C# (C)	etc

v1 Go and warn the shepherd
Of the redness of the sky,
Foul weather's on its way,
It seems;
Let's run towards the shelters,
Remain secure and dry,
Until the break of day
And the gentle softness of your morning dreams.

v2 Go and warn the weathercock
To hold his hat on tight,
The winds are on the rise,
It's said:

Let's keep a fast direction,
Hold steady through the night,
Until the morning skies
Point firmly to the gentle day ahead.

Bridge Put your hand in mine,
And I will squeeze it tight,
Hold it firmly 'til the morning light;

Put your arms around me,
I will keep you warm,
Hold you 'til the passing of the storm.

v3 Go and warn the lighthouseman
To keep his lantern bright,
The storm is brewing fast,
I hear:
Let's edge on forward slowly,
Keep his beacon in our sight,
Until we sail at last
Where calmer waters mark our passage clear.
