CODA

104	D	A6	D
-----	---	----	---

v1 We had a go at passion in the sun,
With hearts that pound together, beings merged to one,
A fiery glow that held us there, within the long tall grass,
A searing heat, and sunburn on the arse;

v2 We took a tilt at passion in the sky,
Soaring in our union, love a mile high,
A roaring wind, a towering view, exhilaration found,
A lack of lift, a bumping on the ground;

Br Love the way it once was,
Love as things are now,
The spirits will,
The bodies won't,
The passions do,
Logistics don't,
With more than fervent sweat upon the brow;
And no incline to fervent anyhow.

v3 We had a bash at sex upon the beach,
With bodies closing tightly, frenzied arms that reach,
Soft warm sand, a wild desire, beneath a wild, wild moon,
A gushing tide that comes in way too soon.
